Departure Of Peron Is Slowed

By W. H. McCall
United Press Staff Correspondent
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Deposed President Juan D. Peron's journey into exile is delayed by Argentine demands for restrictions on his freedom once he reaches refuge in Paraguay, semi-official sources reported today.

Peron remained aboard a crippled Paraguayan gunboat for the ninth straight day while Paraguay and Argentine diplomats sought to hammer out an acceptable solution on the future of the naval and air craft maintained a close watch over the gunboat. Paraguay anchored in Buenos Aires harbor.

Details Under Negotiation — Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi promised to render Peron harmless. Diplomatic sources said the delay in granting Peron a safe conduct pass stemmed from negotiations over the details of his residence in exile in neighboring Paraguay.

The informants said the Lonardi government is demanding that Peron be confined to the Paraguayan city in which he is interned. The demand was said to be based on fears that if Peron is permitted to move freely through Paraguay he could institute a plot to regain his lost power and prestige.

Foreign Minister Mario Amadeo conferred with Ambassador Juan Chavez of Paraguay Tuesday. Amadeo said newsmen later that the "Negotiations for Peron's safe conduct continue favorably and I am confident they will have a happy conclusion."

Badly Needs Repairs

When and if the negotiations are concluded, Peron is expected to sail into exile aboard the Paraguay or its sister ship, the Humata. The Paraguay is so badly in need of repairs that it may not be able to make the 800-mile upriver trip to the Paraguayan capital of Asuncion.

Lonardi announced he was preparing a general amnesty decree that will permit many anti-Peronists to return from exile and wipe out political convictions and charges against them.

The country's return to normalcy under the late president was underlined by the ending of the curfew in Buenos Aires Tuesday night. Rosario, Argentine's second city, scene of die-hard Peronist demonstrations also was reported quiet.

McCusker testified that the highway department was at fault, and that there was no negligence on his part.

Reports Of Outbreak Of Disease Is Investigated

CALVERT CITY, Sept. 28 (AP) — Dr. Samuel L. Henson, health officer for McCracken and Livingston Counties, said he will go to Calvert City today to investigate reports of an outbreak of sleeping sickness.

He said he would confer with physicians there who have been treating patients diagnosed as having the disease.

Marshall County medical authorities revealed late Tuesday that the death of a Calvert City woman two weeks ago was diagnosed as caused by encephalitis, the medical term for sleeping sickness.

Her death brought to five the number of reported cases in the Calvert City area. A similar outbreak was reported in southern Indiana and western Kentucky, where the toll of deaths rose to 10 Tuesday.

Eight of the reported deaths in the earlier outbreak, centered on Fort Branch, Ind., occurred in three southwestern Indiana counties and the remaining were in Marshall County, Ky., and a West Salem, Ill., man.

Marshall County's lone encephalitis death was listed as Amelia Springer, 68, who died earlier this month. An 18-year-old Marshall County boy with the disease is in a Paducah hospital, one has recovered and two other persons still are being treated.

Dr. William Colburn, Calvert City, said the disease has appeared to be of two types, one a "virus type" and the other "polio" encephalitis.

Two of the three persons still suffering from the disease have the polio type and the other has the viral variety.

Health officials discount the theory that the disease is spread in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois areas by mosquitoes, although mosquito control measures are continuing.

Wives Of Ambassadors Confuse Washington

NEW YORK (AP) — Uncle Sam's protocol experts struggled today with a new kind of problem—the eternal triangle.

The triangle involved Mohammed Ali, ambassador from Pakistan to the United States. It became a government protocol problem when Ali's first wife, Begum Humida, 36, arrived here Tuesday on the liner Queen Elizabeth and wife No. 2 were already in New York.

The whole situation is legal under Moslem law which permits Ali to have as many as four wives. But polygamy violates United States laws.

Experts said diplomatic immunity would protect Ali from prosecution under the U.S. laws. But they were undecided whether to recognize wife No. 1, wife No. 2, or both.

The problem was expected to become more confusing when it became necessary to invite Ali to social functions.

They recalled that the Begum was popular in diplomatic and social circles when she was in the United States before as the only wife of Ali.

He married wife No. 2, his 30-year-old former social secretary, after his last visit here.

A spokesman for the Pakistan embassy said this time wife No. 1 and wife No. 2 were in Washington.

Wife No. 1 slipped ashore in New York using her diplomatic passport. With her were her sons, Mohammed, 17, and Hamda, 15.

Eisenhower Continuing His Progress From Heart Attack

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower "slept comfortably" through his second consecutive night and awoke "refreshed" today in continuing his satisfactory progress.

The Chief Executive's doctors reported at 10 a.m. EDT that his progress continues to be satisfactory without complications.

Text of the first bulletin as Mr. Eisenhower began his fifth day in Fitzsimons Army Hospital following a heart attack early Saturday.

"For the second consecutive night the President slept comfortably throughout the night. He went to sleep at 8:30 p.m. and awoke refreshed at 6:30 a.m. This morning his progress continues to be satisfactory without complications."

The President's good appetite Tuesday had given his doctors one of their most encouraging signs of his fight to overcome his illness.

Although medical experts warned cautiously that complications can still set in, those close to the Chief Executive regard his two straight "satisfactory days without complications" as a sign that he may definitely be on the mend.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the famous Boston heart specialist called into the case as a consultant, said the crucial days are still ahead.

The next nine days are the crucial ones, and we have to guard against complications, but right now I'm very hopeful that our President will be all right and back on the job soon," White said.

White commented on the President's condition in Boston, to which he returned Tuesday in a special Military Air Transport Service plane. Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the President's physician, and Col. Byron E. Pollock, head of the heart section at Fitzsimons Army Hospital, Denver, consulted White by telephone Tuesday and will consult him this daily.

They telephoned White a report on a night electrocardiogram which had been taken.

"He's not out of the woods yet, but he's coming along nicely," White said after getting the report. "The cardiogram was a favorable one and, he seems to be making good progress toward recovery."

Routine Rest Measure — The oxygen tent which the President was able to discard during the day Tuesday night was restored Tuesday night as a "routine rest measure" as he prepared for another night's sleep at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

The Chief Executive, who consumed solid food in his first 24 hours in Fitzsimons Army Hospital, ate three complete, but not heavy meals again Tuesday and reportedly enjoyed them. Doctors watched his appetite carefully as one indication of his condition.

In their last bulletin at 9 o'clock MST Tuesday night, the President's physicians said he had spent another "satisfactory day without complications."

After a "good afternoon rest," they said, "he again visited briefly with his family."

They said "the President is sleeping again tonight in the oxygen tent" as a routine rest measure.

The President's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, who flew here Sunday, was scheduled to fly back to Washington today to resume his duties at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Mr. Eisenhower's freedom from the oxygen tent "though most of Tuesday was the first time he had been allowed to remain for an extended period outside the glass canopy. From the time he awoke early Tuesday until he retired, the President remained in the tent only four hours and 25 minutes. That was for rest or sleep."

Mrs. Eisenhower, who has remained at the hospital continuously since her husband's attack, had three brief visits with her husband Tuesday. Their son, John, also saw his father briefly three times.

The President's mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud, saw the Chief Executive Tuesday night for the first time since he was stricken.

Stove Plant Donates $750 To Hospital

The Murray Manufacturing Company has given the Hospital Fund Drive a great boost, with their check of $750 which General Myer Verne Kyle has presented to Mrs. T. Waldrup, president of the Murray Woman's Club.

The Murray Woman's Club has taken as their project this year, the Murray Hospital. They plan to get the entire hospital redecorated, outside repaired and repainted, equipment replaced where needed, and to generally get the physical facilities at the plant in good order.

Mrs. Waldrup reported that the cooperation being received on the project this year was excellent.

She did not reveal how much had been donated thus far to the fund, however she did say that it was growing daily.

Mrs. Waldrup said that the Murray Auto Auction had made a donation of $200 also. Others making donations are Murray Rotary Club $50.00, Young Business Men's Club $50.00, Woodmen Circle $25.00.

Mrs. Waldrup said that she urged as many people as possible to aid in the work to get Murray Hospital in good condition.

She explained that money that normally would be used to carry on repair work and repainting, had been used to retire the heavy debts the hospital was placed under when it was first made into a non-profit making institution.

She urged the people of Murray and Calloway County to remember that the hospital is owned by the people, and that it is not a private institution. The people of Murray and Calloway County furnished the money to purchase the hospital and a board was selected to run the institution as economically as possible.

Anything that is done for the hospital will aid the community as a whole. Mrs. Waldrup said, because the community actually owns the hospital.

Robinson May Step Down

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Jackie Robinson, who came a long way from Cairo, Ga., to change major league baseball, admitted today that he stood at a triple cross in the road.

Robinson received an estimated $35,000 this season. The Brooklyn Dodgers, for whom he has starred since 1947, purportedly don't think he is worth that much.

Therein lies the future of the man who stepped out baseball's color line.

He can take a 25 per cent salary cut, which he won't. He might wind up with another team, if the "right, one" and the salary is right. Or he may step out of the game.

The supporter among those close to the club is that Robinson will not receive a pleasing offer and that, unless one of the "rich" clubs such as Milwaukee or the Giants arrange a deal with Brooklyn for his services, he will step down.

Too Much Friction

There simply is too much friction between Robinson and Manager Walter Alston, all of which stems from the changes — both mental and physical — in Robinson himself.

Back in 1947 when he broke in, Robinson already was a big league player. He proved as much by winning the National League's most valuable player award two years later. Yet, in those days Robinson was an extremely quiet and self-effacing player highly conscious of the tremendous task he was doing.

He was wiping out the long-standing if unwritten rule against Negroes in big league baseball. It was a titanic chore.

It wasn't until several years later, when he finally was voted out a ball game, that Robinson admitted.

"Now I finally feel like I'm a ball player."

Then, feeling like just another player, he stepped off the kid gloves. And while he was at it, he upped another challenge his turn about role.

Alston Took Over

But then Alston took over the club and, instead of seeing the super star of whom he had heard so much, Alston saw only a ball player going down the shady side of the hill. At the beginning of this season, Alston inferred that Robinson would have to win his job like anybody else.

Robinson blew up, and he blew again last week when Alston kept him in and out of the lineup. How, Jackie demanded, could he get ready to play in the World Series when he wasn't in the lineup?

Robinson in the last few years became very outspoken. When Alston took over, it made for a clash of personalities, particularly in view of Jackie's reduced effectiveness.

"I still feel I can be a regular on most any ball club," Robinson analyzed. "I'm not having any physical troubles and I can run and slide just as good as ever. Still, I can't say anything definite about next year."

Nothing, that is, except that he probably won't be in Brooklyn, and unless another front line club bids for his services he probably will be out of baseball.

TVA Newsletter

Design work for the proposed improvement to navigation facilities at the Wilson Dam in north Alabama has started and will be well advanced by the close of the present year, TVA said today.

The TVA appropriation as enacted at the last session of Congress provided $300,000 for planning and design work for a new lock to supplement present lock facilities which are more than 30 years old and which TVA said are "completely obsolete" for handling present-day river traffic. No funds have yet been appropriated for actual construction.

The new lock will have three-chamber dimensions of 110 feet wide and 600 feet long, the same as the dimensions of both the Pickwick Dam and Kentucky Dam locks, and the size of existing locks on the Ohio and upper Mississippi Rivers. It would have a maximum of 100 feet, making it the highest single lift lock in the world. At the present time the lock at the McNary Dam on the Columbia River is the highest lift, and TVA's Fort Loudoun Dam has the second highest.

Under the proposed plan the downstream approach channel to the new lock will be at a lower level than the existing Florence Canal and therefore will bypass Lock and Dam No. 1, which no longer will be necessary. It will follow the alignment of the existing canal from Sweetwater Creek to the new proposed lock. The channel would be dredged to provide a minimum depth of 11 feet. A third lock chamber would be added downstream of the existing double lock at Wilson Dam to provide for the lift now required at Lock and Dam No. 1. The present highway bridge would be replaced by a new high level bridge.

Traffic through Wilson locks has risen from 462,000 tons in 1945 to more than 2.1 million in 1954. TVA said. During 1954, TVA said, Lock No. 1 was closed out for a total of 115 hours. During a 43-day period in August and September.

Thurman-Gardner Vows Read

Miss Martha Thurman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruble Thurman of Murray, became the bride of Fred Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hill Gardner, also of Murray, on Thursday, September 15.

The double-ring ceremony was read in the study of Rev. Glenn Smith, pastor of the Tate St. Baptist Church, Corinth, Miss.

The bride wore a chantilly-type lace dress over white slipper satin, fashioned with an empire waistline and long sleeves coming to points at the waist. Her veil of imported illusion was shoulder length, fastened to a Juliet cap of matching chantilly-type lace, encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip in Florida with the bride wearing a brown figured bates cotton dress with avocado accessories. They will return to Murray and reside with the bridegroom's parents on Route Five.

BACKSTAIRS AT THE WHITEHOUSE

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
DENVER 10 — Backstairs at the temporary White House:

Of all the towns that have unexpectedly become household words because Presidents visit them for vacations, none has taken it in stride like the mountain village of Fraser, Colo.

If the four years that President Eisenhower has visited the town, as a candidate or chief executive, have made any change in the barren, unpretentious town of 350, it doesn't show.

Fraser lets Mr. Eisenhower alone, and vice versa. Both seem to like it that way.

There was the usual "Welcome Ike" banner across the street when Mr. Eisenhower made his first visit of the summer to Fraser last month. But when he returned last week, hardly a person was on the dusty, one-block main street who wasn't there on other business. The President's limousine rolled on through virtually unnoticed.

Washington's change back to standard time gave one disk jockey a bad night. Les Sands of WWDC found himself on an all night show. On the changeover, which happened at 2 a.m. daylight time, he found himself knocked back to 1 a.m. Meaning that he had to work a whole hour for nothing.

One of the happiest cops in Washington is Lt. Tom Ondrio, now that the kids are back in school. Not that the lieutenant has anything against the young set. It's just that the youngsters gave him a bad time during the hot spell by swimming in some of the pools around the Capitol. They delighted the tourists by dipping for senecies. But that didn't delight the cops a bit. He was diving most of the summer for younguns.
